Mattapoissett Fire Chowder Competition Returns

By Jean Perry

When you have winning clam chowder recipes like the Rochester Firefighter's Association and the Rochester Facilities Department, you know it – and now so do all those who attended the 2nd Annual Mattapoissett Firefighters Association Chowder Competition.

Rochester came out on top in the public safety category this second year in a row. In fact, the Rochester Firefighter's Association won the People's Choice Award. Last year, the association took home first place for Judges' Choice; this year, however, they came in second behind Rochester Facilities Director Andrew Daniel who, ironically, took second place last year behind Rochester Fire.

The secret: Daniel tops off his clam chowder with a piece of fried clam, an idea the Rochester Firefighter's Association "borrowed" this year.

"It was really my idea," said Daniel. But the culinary creativity doesn't stop there for Daniel. "Salt pork fat," Daniel simply stated.

All the members of the Rochester Firefighter's Association were confident they would again bring home the gold, pushing forward with their recipe from last year that everybody raved about – with the exception of the addition of the fried clam, of course.

"We're not going to fix what's not broken," said Chief Dispatcher Tracy Eldridge.

Coming in third place for the Judges' Choice Award for public safety was Fairhaven Harbormaster / Shellfish Warden Tim Cox and his team. As his longtime friend Sharon DeCosta served guests cups of "Grandma Lyla's chowder," a family recipe belonging to DeCosta's grandmother, Cox was busy transferring littlenecks on the half shell cooked with garlic and butter from the grill to a serving pan, an added bonus to chowder tasters at Cox's booth.

"It's basic," said Cox. No tricks or fancy ingredients, just "an old-fashioned" chowder with a thick creamy base. "I think it's a winner. It's what we grew up on."

The Marion Firefighters Association came in third last year for Judges' Choice, and returned once again with Assistant Fire Chief Allen Denham's secret recipe. His secret is well kept, but he would reveal that one of the important tenets to his delicious chowder is the fresh quahogs he catches himself.

Fairhaven Fire Lt. Brian Daniels and Garth Rowe said they, like other area public safety departments, participated in the event this year for the good cause

Correction

The Wanderer wishes to make a clarification regarding the last paragraph of the article "A Brief History of the Elizabeth Islands" on page 16 in the September 8 edition. Although the public can anchor and go ashore on the privately held islands, the public is permitted only on Naushon Island at Tarpaulin Cove on the south shore, and Kettle Cove and West Beach on the north shore. The public is not permitted beyond the back of the beach. Additional areas open to the public include the Weepecket Islands on the north shore of Naushon and Bull Island at the entrance to Hadley Harbor at the east end of Naushon.

On the Cover: At the Mattapoissett Firefighters Association Chowder Competition on Sunday, descendants of the late retired Mattapoissett Fire Chief Donald "Woody" Wood posed together for a photo near an engine Wood operated during his career. Wood's two daughters, Susan McMahon and Betsy Wood Jackson, along with four granddaughters, a grandson, and three great-granddaughters remembered Wood, with McMahon saying as she gestured to her family, "He's the reason for all of 'this'." Wood passed away just this past May. Photo by Jean Perry*

– purchasing new and updated equipment for the Mattapoisett Fire Department – adding, “We all chip in.”

As for Daniels’ secret, he would not share much more than this bit of wisdom: “It’s not just what you put in it, but it’s how you mix it.” Bacon, of course, is a staple to Daniels’ chowder, saying he got great feedback from taste testers.

“Nobody walked away saying they didn’t like it,” said Rowe.

Members from the Rehoboth Fire Department threw their firefighter’s hat in the ring this year for the first time, with Captain Ken “Marco” Marcotrigiano, a chef by trade, saying his chowder was a winner because of a “secret weapon” he includes in his ingredients, something he would only say was not usually a common ingredient in clam chowder.

Rehoboth Firefighter Ben Lewin said Marco impressed him when he showed up to the firehouse that morning “and just started adding ingredients and tasting it until it tasted right.”

“It came out phenomenal,” said Lewin. “Thick ... there is something definitely about it, but it is our secret.”

The Marion Harbormaster Department, The Marion Police Brotherhood, and Mattapoisett Police Officer’s Association also participated in the public safety competition.

Mattapoisett Patrol Officer Paul Andrews said he didn’t place last year, and he left that competition wondering what he could do to win the next year.

"All year I been making sure that it's right this time," said Andrews.

It's a family recipe he used, which he improved upon this year. Andrews' wife Elizabeth and their two children, Ciera and Chandler, served a steady stream of guests, representing Mattapoisett Police.

There were a total of 22 participants this year, a bigger turnout than the last, said Mattapoisett Fire Lt. Justin Dubois.

"Everything was different this year. More teams, more tents," said Dubois. "Everything is bigger than last year's."

Dubois is pleased that the community has enjoyed the event so much and plans to keep the chowder competition an annual tradition.

School Reunion Brings Many Home

By Marilou Newell

On September 17 at the Rochester Council on Aging, the 10th Grammar School Reunion hosted nearly a hundred former Rochester students. The reunion brought together folks who had learned their ABCs in classrooms or one-room schoolhouses that dotted the Rochester landscape before 1954.

Organizer and prime mover of the event Betty Beaulieu said, "Unless some others do it, this will be the last reunion." Putting that aside for the afternoon, clearly coming together once again to remember those early days held great significance for all.

The theme of the reunion was "What have you been doing since high school?" As the former students gathered around tables set for a grand luncheon, many came forward, some feeling quite uncomfortable speaking in front of a crowd, but all wishing to share where life had taken them. Given the average age of those in attendance, there certainly were plenty of decades of history to share.

A big part of the event was the sharing of "life stories." Those who stood up talked about their careers, impressive careers in finance, teaching, nursing, business, and nutrition. Several had more than one career as retiring brought new challenges and avenues to pursue. Since graduating from high school, clearly this group had spent a lifetime being productive members of society and all had started in a tiny Rochester school. Clearly their early educations had prepared them well for all that was to come.

Recently to current events, speakers shared what they are doing now such as traveling, or even pursuing a third career path. The ladies who took up the microphone to share their stories also spoke of their children and how their now middle-aged sons and daughters had turned out, clearly a major accomplishment and source of pride.

One lady shared that she had a deceased husband, a husband she had divorced, and now a "good" husband much to the collective laughter and applause of her fellow classmates. Another said that she had met her current husband while attending the school reunion several years ago, making the annual event also a matchmaking opportunity.

Some had traveled thousands of miles to be together. One lady said that attending the reunion was on her "bucket list," a not-to-be-missed occasion. Participants had traveled from all four corners of the country while others had remained in Rochester, building their lives in their beloved community.

As the aroma of roast beef, chicken potpies, and gravy wafted over the group, story time concluded and the feasting began. Following the luncheon, the group was entertained by the duet, The Snowbirds.

By all accounts the "last reunion" of the Rochester Grammar School students was a huge success. But who knows? Given how important being together clearly was for this group of reunion attendees, it wouldn't be surprising if someone stepped up to organize another gathering, at least one more time.

Marion Assault Leads to Arrest

Marion Police Department Press Release

On Friday, September 16, 2106 at 10:33 pm, officers from the Marion Police Department responded to the area of Converse Road and Route 6 for a male subject staggering in the roadway who appeared to be bleeding.

Officers Kris Smith and Larry Savery located the subject, a 38-year-old male from Middleboro, who was bleeding from the face and hand and intoxicated. The victim told the officers that he had been stabbed. He was able to identify his assailant. Marion Fire/EMS arrived and transported the victim to Tobey Hospital in Wareham, with non-life threatening injuries.

Officers were unable to immediately locate the suspect.

A few hours later, Sgt. Marshall Sadeck and Derryl Lawrence responded to the area of Mill Street for a suspicious person. They located the suspect and placed him under arrest. He was booked at the Marion Police Station and ordered held on $5,000 cash bail. He was later transported to the Plymouth County House of Correction.

Selectmen Approve Several Water Ban Exemptions

Marion Board of Selectmen

By Jean Perry

With the region now under a drought warning, the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection has issued a mandatory water ban on non-essential outdoor water use, and Marion is included in the region affected. But, as discussed during the Marion Board of Selectmen meeting on September 20, there are always exceptions.

A letter from the DEP last week does state specific circumstances that qualify for exemption from the water ban such as for "the production of food and fiber, the maintenance of livestock, and to meet the core functions of a business."

With a drought warning, all outdoor use is restricted, including vehicle washing, lawn irrigation systems, filling pools, and washing exterior buildings.

The Board of Selectmen, which is also the Water / Sewer Commission, received six separate requests for an exemption from the water ban for permission to utilize outdoor water for watering newly established lawns that were installed before the water ban came into effect.

Town Administrator Paul Dawson said the water superintendent made the recommendation that the selectmen grant the exemption for all six requests and the selectmen approved them.

Dawson said residents with private wells are encouraged to voluntarily observe the water ban to preserve aquifer resources.

"This is a pretty serious drought situation as we all know," said Dawson. In order to preserve water for emergencies and maintain water pressure for fire suppression, Dawson said, it is important "not to draw down the groundwater too much."

Selectman Steve Gonsalves said he supported the exemptions because they were sensible.

"I would certainly be one to allow that within reason," Gonsalves said, "[and] in favor of lightening up a little bit on that." He added that he himself would likely be one to request an exemption because he plans to install a new grass lawn, saying, "I can't go another winter with mud."

Selectmen Chairman Jody Dickerson suggested that since the board only meets every other week, the board should authorize the water superintendent to approve subsequent exemptions within reason in the meantime, and the selectmen voted to allow this for the next 30 days.

"They have a handle on what our [water] levels are ... so I would respect their decisions on that," Selectman Stephen Cushing said. He added that all requests must be in writing.

In other matters, the board declared the old 1999 International E-One pumper (Engine 3) as surplus and voted to accept a bid from Brindlee Fire Apparatus to broker the engine on the town's behalf. The town, which received two identical bids from the only two companies in the country that broker fire engines, chose Brindlee Mountain because of positive business with the broker in the past.

The board also met with Joseph Zora, Jr. and his attorney Margaret Ishihara regarding Zora's dispute with the town over access to his property via Parlowtown Road, which Zora maintains is a public way on land the town acquired decades ago through a title tax taking. Zora's attorney said that there is only limited documented history on the land dispute and argued that a 1961 Town Meeting vote surrounding a Sippican Lands Trust land acquisition transaction to place a gate and boulders blocking passage through Parlowtown Road was not legal.

Town Counsel Jon Whitten, present that night, said the selectmen have no jurisdiction to undo a Town Meeting vote; however, if Zora and his attorney could produce a 1961 Town Meeting Warrant that provided enough detail to prove Zora's position, then Whitten might, if convinced, advise the selectmen to support a subsequent Town Meeting vote to resolve the matter.

Selectmen Preview Special Town Meeting Articles

Rochester Board of Selectmen

By Jean Perry

Special Town Meeting voters on October 17 will see eight articles featured on the warrant, which the Rochester Board of Selectmen approved on September 19.

Town Administrator Suzanne Szyndlar gave an informal rundown of all eight of them, starting with Article 1 that appropriates $10,000 from free cash to a bylaw codification project.

Article 2 covers $27,000 for the air conditioning system replacement at the police station, and Article 3 is for the supplemental appropriation for four different projects: The Town Clerk's Office would receive $1,500 for the restoration of books; $4,800 to the Police Department for air conditioning system repairs; $3,100 for a fire protection system; and $17,725 for the insurance budget.

Article 4 would appropriate $20,000 from free cash for the town hall annex study, and Article 5 appropriates $32,000 for the funding and reserve for future contract settlements. Article 6 would transfer $67,000 in free cash to the town's Stabilization Fund.

The sum of the appropriations totals $183,125.

Articles 7 and 8 pertain to the Personnel Bylaw: Article 7 amends language surrounding grievance filings, and Article 8 amends the bylaw's employment probationary period.

A formal presentation of a final draft of the special town meeting warrant will be presented at the next selectmen's meeting.

In other matters, Selectmen Chairman Naida Parker read a letter from the Water Commissioners regarding the town's recent upgrade from a drought watch to the drought warning. The letter served to inform residents who use public water of a mandatory ban on outdoor water use. The letter also urged non-public water users with private wells to observe the same water restriction.

Water Commissioner Fred Underhill, present during the meeting, said, "We're all on the same water aquifer and we're in trouble."

Underhill said that about 40 or 50 years ago, water wells went way down during dry spells and nearly dried up.

"And we don't want that to happen again," Underhill said, "and we would appreciate everybody willing to comply."

Also during the meeting, selectmen approved the transfer of the current liquor license for Lloyd's Market to

Selectmen Appoint New Board Members

Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen

By Marilou Newell

For over an hour and a half on September 20, the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen met with candidates vying to be of service to the town by appointment to either the one Conservation Commission seat or one of two seats on the Planning Board. Those boards had interviewed the candidates in open meetings held over the past couple of months.

Seeking the single open slot on the Conservation
Commission were five candidates that Chairman Tyler Macallister said were "five very strong applicants." Those applicants were Diane Tsitsos, Chapman Dickerson, Janice Robbins, Michael Sites, and Bernice Kaiser.

Chairman of the Conservation Commission Bob Rogers was asked to step forward. He said that the commissioners had drawn a secret ballot and provided the selectmen with their recommendation. He asked if the board would consider increasing the number of voting commissioners, expanding the board to seven members from five. They agreed to do that in the near future so that qualified candidates would not be lost.

The board of Selectmen unanimously selected Chapman Dickerson.

During the interview, Selectman Jordan Collyer asked him if he would have a conflict of interest, given his job. He replied, "No."

Dickerson, whose background was not made clear in his letter submitted for consideration, wrote in his letter of introduction, "The knowledge gained in my highly regulated profession has given me the ability to read, understand and interpret regulatory language provided by state and federal authorities."

Dickerson is currently a member of the Agricultural Commission.

seats on the Planning Board. Robbins, who also applied for the Conservation Commission seat, was considered along with Todd Philie, Paul Osenkowski, and Gail Carlson.

The selectmen chose Robbins and Carlson.

Gail Carlson, a resident of Brandt Point Village did not provide a resume but voiced her desire to be of service to the town. Carlson has been a regular attendee at Planning Board meetings since moving to the sub-division in 2014. She said she served on other boards in other towns.

Robbins, a lawyer originally from Raynham and Mattapoisett resident since 1979, offered her rich background in real estate transactions and familiarity with SRPEDD. She said that she had been involved with planning boards due to her representation of real estate clients and understood the importance of engaging engineers for technical input.

In other matters, Town Administrator Michael Gagne reported that the Coast Guard public hearing on the disestablishment of some navigational aids in Buzzards Bay is scheduled for September 28 at 6:00 pm at Mass Maritime Academy's Glyns Hall. Harbormaster Jill Simmons will be in attendance as will Gagne.

The mandatory water restriction was discussed with all non-essential watering restricted to hand watering only between the hours of 6:00 - 8:00 am and 6:00 - 8:00 pm. A full notice is available on the town's

In other business, Stephen Brodo was appointed as alternate building inspector; Paula Butterfield is stepping down as veterans clerk; John Cornish is stepping down from the Marine Advisory Board; Lebanese Kitchen received an entertainment license; and the Lions Club received permission to hold a Fall Family Festival on October 29 from noon to 8:00 pm.

Cat Shelter Addition Gets Approval

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

The cats that call It's All About the Animals home will soon be purring in their new 'cat room' and porch addition now that Pam and Oren Robinson, owners of the cat shelter at 103 Marion Road, finally received the approval they'd been seeking from the Rochester Planning Board.

On September 14, Planning Board Chairman Arnold Johnson said the waiver list for the Site Plan Review looked good to him and, although it might have taken some time for the rather simple and straightforward project to move through the review process, the board was ready to take a vote.

Ms. Robinson clapped upon the approval, with Planning Board member Lee Carr adding, "The cats will be happy."

"They will," replied Robinson, "And so will I."

Johnson reminded Robinson that she would need to schedule a pre-construction conference before starting work after the 20-day appeal period is over and meet with public safety officials as well. There would also be a subsequent site visit, at which time Johnson said he had been dared by someone to leave the site without adopting a cat, a challenge he said he's accepted.

Also during the meeting, – aside from a virtual Willy Wonka-esque gathering with heaping bowls of candy and chocolates, a new tradition for apparent sweet-toothed board members – ABC Disposal, Inc. CEO Michael Camara had a brief meeting with the board regarding the Zero Waste recycling processing facility off Cranberry Highway.

Johnson said that discussions with town counsel revealed that the company is indeed allowed to invest money into some of the short-term fixes that are needed to bring the site up to par with the board and public safety officials, contrary to what Camara thought before, as he explained his challenges with securing financing for the project.

"I was up there today," said Planning Board member Michael Murphy. "I was really impressed as far as how clean the inside was.... From what I could see, they're trying their best to get everything squared away. I think they're on the right path."

Pot holes were to be completed that following Saturday, and other minor fixes pertaining to stormwater management would be completed soon after.

Board member Gary Florindo suggested the board at some point give Camara a timeframe for work completion with a follow-up site visit before winter.

In other matters, Dan Webb for Meadowatt, developers of a solar farm slated for 188-190 Marion Road (Route 105) presented some relatively minor changes to the plan to the board, mostly pertaining to utility pole locations, a metering pad, and fencing. The board deemed

Conservation Commission Vents Frustration

Marion Conservation Commission

By Marilou Newell

Engineer Rich Charon, representing his client Gale Runnells, 17 Reservation Way, came before the Marion Conservation Commission on September 12 seeking a Certificate of Compliance. What he received was frustration from several commission members for what they deemed were unacceptable inconsistencies between the plan of record and the as-built plans.

Chairman Cynthia Callow said the filing was a bit of an "after-the-fact" notification, given that the completed work deviated from the plan.

The original plans called for a 12- by 24-foot in-ground pool; however, the pool was constructed at 16 by 24 feet. Permanent no-touch-zone demarcations were planned with large rocks and boulders, but the applicant poured concrete forms instead, with one form being inside the pool fencing. Furthermore, the fencing itself, instead of being placed around the apron of the pool, was installed in the wetlands no-touch zone.

"There's been a lack of communication," Charon told the commissioners. He said that indeed the fencing had been set farther into the jurisdictional area than originally planned, but that the finished work had been well done and the no-touch zone marked.

But commissioner Joel Hartley asked, "How can we give a Certificate of Compliance if the no-touch zone was touched?"

Commissioner Jeff Doubrava was clearly frustrated. "I've got an issue with this project – the no-touch zone was ignored," Doubrava said. He pointed out that the pool fence had been installed in the no-touch zone and now, "You're asking for forgiveness after the fact." He also took exception to the placement of concrete forms rather than use of stones saying, "That makes it easier to Callow added, "We're a little frustrated. We've had a plethora of these coming at us." She told Charon, "I know you're not responsible, but it's hard to issue compliance when it's not in compliance."

There then ensued nearly 30 minutes of discussion as the commissioners and Charon attempted to reach common ground.

Charon explained that the pool fence had been placed downhill of the pool because it would have obstructed the water view in the original location.

Commissioner Shaun Walsh asked, "Is there anything preventing the property owner from allowing the natural vegetation to re-establish?" noting that some cuttings had also taken place in the no-touch zone. Charon agreed that was possible, along with planting of native species. But he could not agree with moving the fence to its original location as suggested by Doubrava.

Walsh said, "A greater effort needs to be made to be in compliance with the Order of Conditions. This is a problem of your client's own making."

Charon offered to return with a planting plan. The hearing was continued until September 28.

Robert McNamara's RDA application for the construction of a shed at 19 Shawondasse Road met with some push back when abutters complained to the commission that "word on the street" was that it would McNamara denied that he ever indicated to prospective buyers that a shed could be used as living space. "Everything I've done over there, I've come to [the Conservation Commission] first," he said in defense of some modifications he's made to the property.

Callow told the abutters that the commission was only responsible for wetland-related issues, and that other boards could hear their building and building-use concerns.

McNamara received a Negative 2 decision for his application.

All other applications on this night went through smoothly.

Negative 2 determinations of applicability were issued for Elizabeth Middleton, 40 Joanne Drive, for the construction of an in-ground pool and addition to existing dwelling; Bob Cattel, Blackhall Court and Hastings Road, for repairs and repaving to existing roadways; Angus Leary, 19 Lewis Street, for the construction of an in-ground pool and pool house; Kathleen Mahoney, 40 Dexter Road, to relocate a generator; Philip Stevenson, 50 Point Road, to cut 4,955 square feet of overgrown vegetation and convert the area to lawn; and Warren Williamson, 121 Converse Road, to construct a ramp to an elevated deck and modifications to decking for an outdoor shower.

decade of on-and-off again subdivision activity, more than one developer, and massive water drainage issues. The current developer of the property, Michael Solimando, has been working with G.A.F. Engineering to develop drainage plans that would ensure abutters would not sustain flooding on their properties. It has been a difficult project, not only for G.A.F., but also for the Planning Board who have heard numerous complaints regarding the drainage issues at the incomplete sub-division for years.

Last year, G.A.F. began working with the town's engineer, Field Engineering. That collaboration eventually produced a viable drainage plan, one that would benefit the town with drainage issues on River Road.

On this night, Denham said, "Piping has been installed from the westernmost drainage pond to the catch basin on River Road." He said that an 18-inch drainage pipe connecting the subdivision system to the town's system on River Road would improve the drainage at that location also. He said that the contractor had been "very good about calling me and keeping me informed on the schedule."

Chairman Tom Tucker was pleased with the update and comically added, "Didn't take too long – just 15 years."

Another project that has garnered hours of Planning Board hearings, complaints from Phase 1 homeowners, and legal actions is Brandt Point Village. The subdivision is planned to have numerous single-family homes, a large multi-family private sewer system, and roadways. Changes in owners, developers, and contractors, long delays in roadway completion and an untested septic/sewer system have remained points of concern for Phase 1 residents and the town.

"They are still trying to get the septic to pass," said Denham. He said that numerous deficiencies documented by Field Engineering for reports requested by the town have found problems with the piping and manholes.

Tucker asked if the present contractor, Armand Cotelleso, was keeping him informed.

"Not really," Denham responded. "I don't know what's going on there unless I go there, but I've been in touch with Ken Motta, Field Engineering." Denham went on to say that the septic/sewer system has not worked properly since the first homes were constructed years ago.

Moving onto another project, Tucker asked Denham if he knew what was transpiring at a single-home site located adjacent to Town Landing on Mattapoisett Neck Road. Denham said the Department of Environmental Protection had denied the owner's request to dig trenches in the marsh for utility access. He said they were being allowed to bore under the marsh and pull through utility conduits for electrical, water, and sewer services.

Con Com Reviews Drought Status

Rochester Conservation Commission

By Andrea Ray

The continued drought in Massachusetts was the main talking point at the Rochester Conservation Commission meeting on Tuesday, September 20.

"The Mattapoissett River did run dry at one point," said Conservation Agent Laurell Farinon. "It has before in times of severe drought, but we're monitoring the situation." Rochester is currently experiencing 'Extreme Drought' status, the second-highest level on the scale.

The drought is causing considerable anxiety among local cranberry growers.

"The cranberry growers are anxious," Farinon explained. "It's going to be a difficult year for them. We can only hope for more rain this month."

The committee also briefly touched on the old Rochester Town Pound, which will shortly be a stop on the Rochester Historical Society's guided tour of historical sites in Rochester. "It needs some maintenance work before the tour," said commission member Laurene Gerrior.

"I pulled about 200 small evergreens and white pines from inside the pound," said Rosemary Smith.

"There are still some inside the pound and of course in front of it, but my back gave out," she joked cheerfully.

"Anyone who wants to pull trees, feel free!" When Gerrior mentioned flowers she had planted at the pound two years ago, Smith replied, "Well, I didn't pull anything that looked like a flower, but weeds and flowers look very similar to me!"

The brief meeting was supposed to begin with a public hearing regarding a Notice of Intent at 1 Happy Tails Lane, owned by James and Charlotte Spieldenner. When 7:00 pm came however, there was nobody on the benches. "I don't see anyone here," commission member Kevin Cassidy said.

"I heard from the engineer, and his understanding was that the continuation we granted last time was indefinite until he had the chance to speak with the Planning Board," Conservation Assistant Margaret Gonneville explained. The board voted to make the continuation indefinite.

The only other business items of the day were requests for Certificates of Compliance continuations submitted by Mark and Rachel Letourneau at 23 Foss Farm Lane and Ralph Perry at 99 Wolf Island Road.

The Letourneaus received their original Certificate of Compliance on March 14, 2003, approving the construction of a single-family dwelling, septic system, driveway, pool, and horse barn.

"They're looking to sell the property now,"

Farinon explained, "and would like to extend the certificate." She pointed out that the property's driveway and part of a pavilion were built inside the 100-foot buffer zone of wetlands, but that both had been installed before the buffer zone had become a law. The commission unanimously approved the continuance without questions.

Perry's original Certificate of Compliance was obtained on August 24, 2012. It approved the construction of a three-season enclosed room over the existing deck area with several Sonotube supports to be set within the 100-foot buffer zone.

"I've been there," Farinon said. "I didn't see any adverse effects on the wetlands, and everything's neat and in order." The continuation was also approved unanimously.

The next Rochester Conservation Committee meeting will be held at 7:00 pm on October 4 at the Rochester Town Hall.

Tabor to Host 4th Annual Day of Service

Tabor Academy Update

By Jack Gordon

For the past four years, Tabor Academy has held a Day of Service, an event that has allowed the entire Tabor community to interact with Southcoast communities in a more direct and personal manner than ever before.

On Wednesday, September 28, the entirety of the student body and faculty – roughly 600 people – will once again disperse into the local communities to work with over 40 organizations and programs located in the Southcoast. Major themes within the projects include education, environmental preservation, food, and repurposed items. While many of the relationships with these local organizations have existed since the inaugural Day of Service, the list has continued to grow each year.

The largest percentage of students and faculty will get the opportunity to work to preserve the breathtaking landscapes of Marion and the surrounding area. Partnerships with organizations such as the Buzzards Bay Coalition, the Lloyd Center, the YMCA, and several local lands trusts not only provide substantial manpower for critical maintenance projects, but they also give students a better understanding and appreciation for the natural world around Marion.

Among the many other service opportunities during the Day of Service is the chance to help tend to gardens at the Dartmouth YMCA or Wareham Free Library or Congregational Church, deliver furniture to people in need with My Brother's Keeper, process donated items at Gifts to Give, or work alongside staff at the Southcoast Humane Society.

Students and faculty break up into advisory groups, comprised of no more than 10 people, and complete one of these projects across the area. For these groups, there is an added benefit to performing this service.

"I love that everyone comes together, and it's one of the most significant bonding experiences I've had with my advisory," said senior Duhita Das, a member of the Community Service Board at Tabor.

In past years, Tabor has held two days of service per year, one in the fall and one in the spring. Last year, however, the event was converted into an on-campus Special Olympics Fitness Day, which brought hundreds of people of all ages onto campus for a morning of athletics. Due to the success of the event, it will continue for this school year.

For Tabor students, the opportunities to give back to the community are by no means limited to this single Day of Service. With the help of Community Service Coordinators Lauren Boucher and Amelia Wright, the Community Service Board hosts numerous community service opportunities each week and weekend.

"This is a day where Tabor students aim to give back to our friends and neighbors who have given so much of themselves to the vibrant communities of the Southcoast," Wright said in a press release. "It is our humble thank you and our pledge to continue the important work with our students of challenging them to carefully consider what it means to be a caring and supportive citizen of our world."

Many of the organizations partnering with Tabor during the Day of Service also do so throughout the year. When these opportunities are announced, students are quick to volunteer, with some filling up within minutes. In addition to this Day of Service, each Tabor student takes part in community service at some point during the school year.

While service to the community for Tabor students will not end with the Day of Service, for many incoming students, it certainly will start there.

What Makes a Vocational School?

Old Colony Update

By Elizabeth Jerome

What makes a school a vocational school? The answer is simple – 'shop'.

Shop is the blessed two weeks when a vocational student is allowed to practice and learn in their field of choice. This week, the freshmen got their first taste of the hands-on learning offered by Old Colony's many shops.

Feelings of excitement and apprehension were in the air as students, unsure of what to expect, entered their first shops. They worked through the week doing everything from wiring in electrical, to designing posters in graphics, to building beautiful woodwork in carpentry. Freshmen get to see that they're capable of a lot, and sometimes they even get to take home their good work.

Some were happy with their first week, others were less than enthusiastic about their first assignments, but they wouldn't be there for long. Freshmen start off in Exploratory, a trial run when each student will experience eight shops, one per week, over the coming months. Their attitude and effort in each shop will determine if they get accepted into their top pick. Students work hard each week testing out and learning what each vocation is all about and by January, they'll all be assigned and sorted into their permanent fields of study for the next three years.

Shops aren't the only thing that makes a vocational school one of a kind. SkillsUSA plays a big part in making vocational education special.

SkillsUSA, or Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) as it was once known, is a nationwide student organization that partners with industry leaders to help vocational students become skilled professional leaders in the world of work. From state competitions and leadership conferences to in-school events, SkillsUSA has a big impact on the vocational experience. The Old Colony Chapter of SkillsUSA is working especially hard this year to kick it up a notch.

OC's SkillsUSA has only just elected its officers and begun its first meetings for the year, and already there are big things ahead. Plans for a garden are underway, as are plans for pep rally fundraisers and the yearly trip to the Fall State Leadership Conference.

The conference will be three days of fun events that teach high school students employability skills, as well as leadership skills, for their future careers.

It's a huge event with hundreds of kids from around Massachusetts coming together for days of games, competitions, and fun. Old Colony's chapter of SkillsUSA urges new students who haven't experienced Skills to contact and join them for future events.

Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

My parrot only like the sunflower seeds in her seed mix. How can I get her to eat the other seeds.

I equate an all seed diet to an all white bread diet. Ok, in the short run, but severely deficient over time. Seeds lack vitamin A and a number of essential oils.

What should I feed my parrot?

Feed pelleted bird food. It looks like dry dog or cat food but much smaller, and its formulated for birds. To this add fresh fruits and vegetables. Offer the seeds for 10 minutes in the morning and 10 minutes in the evening and leave the pellets, fruits and veggies available for the rest of the day.

To the Editor:

Tabor Academy is taking active steps to conform to and support the Town of Marion's recent water ban. Our faculty and students have been notified about the restriction and will join with our Marion neighbors to refrain from non-essential water use during the restriction, and also to limit even essential uses. Townspeople may observe our grass fields and some other central areas being watered by our sprinkler system. We want residents to know that these sprinkler systems, as well as our watering truck for potted plants and flower beds, are always fed by our irrigation pond and do not draw from the Town's water supply. With precipitation levels extremely low, we intend to use all water resources responsibly and sparingly. Tabor remains committed to conserving all resources, and to partnering with the Town wherever possible to ensure that our community's shared resources are cared for in sustainable and healthy ways.

TOWN OF MATTAPOISETT MANDATORY WATER USE RESTRICTION

As a result of the continued below normal precipitation and declining groundwater and surface water resources the Town of Mattapoisett is implementing a BAN on NONESSENTIAL OUTSIDE WATER USE. This BAN is in accordance with recommendations by the Massachusetts Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs and Drought Management Task Force. This BAN is necessary to ensure adequate water supply continues to be available for essential public health and fire protection needs. FAILURE TO COMPLY COULD RESULT IN WRITTEN WARNING AND/ OR POSSIBLE FINES.

Nonessential outdoor water use shall mean those uses that are not required:

1. for health or safety reasons;
2. by regulation;
3. for the production of food and fiber;
4. for the maintenance of livestock;
5. to meet the core functions of a business (for example, or irrigation by plant nurseries or agricultural operations as necessary to maintain stock or establish new plantings, wash equipment to prevent damage and/or maintain performance, pest management and plant cooling); or
6. for irrigation by golf courses as necessary to maintain tees and greens, subject to the Town's approval.

Nonessential outdoor water uses that are subject to mandatory restrictions include:

1. Irrigation of lawns via sprinklers or automatic irrigation systems;
2. Washing of vehicles, except in a commercial car wash or as necessary for operator safety or to prevent damage and/or maintain performance of agricultural or construction vehicles or equipment; and
3. Washing of exterior building surfaces, parking lots, driveways or sidewalks, except as necessary to apply paint, preservatives, stucco, pavement or cement.

Exceptions to nonessential outdoor water uses are:

1. Gardens, flowers and ornamental plants by means of a hand-held hose - between the hours of 6AM to 8 AM and 6 PM to 8 PM only
2. Irrigation with harvested and stored storm water runoff between the hours of 6AM to 8 AM and 6 PM to 8 PM only

The following outdoor water uses are subject to review and approval by the Town of Mattapoisett, through its Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners,

- irrigation to establish replanted or reseeded lawn or plantings
- irrigation of newly planted lawns (seeded or sodded) for homes or businesses newly constructed in the previous twelve months;
- Filling of privately owned outdoor pools; and
- irrigation by golf courses as necessary to maintain tees and greens.

Residents who are currently on a private well are encouraged to participate in the current restrictions due to the drought situation across the State.

National Solo Sailing Champions

A pair of New England sailors captured the first-ever national championships for single-handed racing in the Bullseye and H-12 classes in a five-race regatta Saturday, September 17, on Buzzards Bay in Massachusetts.

Chris Verni, of Westwood, MA, and Laurie Knight, of Marion, MA, are the new national champion single-handed racers in Bullseye and H-12 classes, respectively. Both dominated their fleets by wide margins.

Chris Collings of Marion, MA, who had been injured two months prior, came off the bench to take second place in the Bullseye class, and Chris Streit, of Cos Cob, CT and Key Largo, FL, took third place. Second- and third-place honors in the H-12 competition went to Mark Adams of Wareham, MA, and Ron Wisner of Marion, MA, respectively.

These were the inaugural single-handed races of a new national championship in the two sailboat classes. Racing of Bullseyes and H-12s with crews of two or three have been a fixture of East Coast sailing for decades. This year's regatta was hosted by the Beverly Yacht Club in Marion. The Bullseye Sailing Association has already agreed to host next year's single-handed nationals in Maine, said Chris Collings.

Competitors this year registered from Massachusetts, Maine, New York and Florida.

The competitors had to contend with light, shifty breezes through much of the day.

Chris Collings and Ed Tiffany, both perennial top contenders in crewed racing, did much of the organizational work. However, neither claims to be "the guy in charge," said Collings. Many others have stepped up to do vital work. "I tend to see myself as a member of a flash mob," Collings said.

The Beverly Yacht Club has an unusually large and active Bullseye fleet and has fielded a formidable squad of boats year after year for the crewed Nationals. Many veterans of those campaigns were part of the new single-handed Nationals, either as competitors or as race officials, Collings said.

Bullseye and H-12 sailors are an especially dogged breed of one-design racers. All through the regular racing season, said Collings, single-handers compete even though class rules make it impossible for them to advance to Nationals.

The Bullseye Sailing Association polled some 220 members and learned that 70% wanted single-handers to have their own national competition. Collings said a smaller cadre of H-12 solo sailors then asked whether they could be included. "The message was clear that these races were meeting a previously unmet need," he said.

Ed Tiffany reports that creating the new single-handed class prompted at least four new skippers to join the Bullseye Sailing Association in order to become eligible to compete in last week's Nationals.

MOVIE REVIEW

After Dark

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer (1986). Starring Michael Rooker and Tom Towles. Directed by John McNaughton. Running time: 83 minutes.

This week marks thirty years since the peerlessly grim Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer first saw the light of a projector (at the Chicago International Film Festival). All told, it was four years before the film found a distributor and got a proper release. This gory and disquieting horror-drama has now received a 4K restoration and will soon be re-released in theaters. It's already available on DVD and Blu-ray, of course, and whatever way you can see it, you should.

Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer has a creepy, city-after-dark overtone, an existential chill. It packs a true grindhouse whiff while staking its claim as art. There's a deep tension between content and context here; the movie shows you hyperbolically grotesque things, but often at a remove, with the camera tracking in or out. The tracking happens during the opening credits, when we see various (usually female) corpses left in the wake of the titular Henry (Michael Rooker). Whether we're pulling back to take in the entire scene of the crime or pushing in for a better look at a woman's ruined face, we're led to look at the carnage as a series of tableaux, as works of art out of time, suspended forever in death and by death.

After making one documentary, director/co-writer John McNaughton made his feature debut with Henry — and directed nothing remotely like it in the three decades since. Despite a few genre pieces here and there (The Borrower is goofy fun), McNaughton has never worn the label of "horror director" well. Henry has more in common with Cassavetes than with Herschell Gordon Lewis, though the movie's purest demographic exists in a Venn diagram of fans of both directors. The movie is cold and bleak, shot in the bowels of Chicago at night or on sunless days, usually in godforsaken alleys or among dead-looking roadside flora, the kind of places where corpses can be hidden, sometimes maybe found, almost never cared about.

The motor of the minimalist plot involves Henry's roommate and "friend" Otis (Tom Towles) and Otis' visiting sister Becky (Tracy Arnold). Tracy grows sweet on Henry, who doesn't know quite what to do with her feelings. Otis has a thing for Becky, but also puts his hand on the thigh of a guy he's dealing weed to. Henry is a moral blank, but Otis is a true monster, sexually twisted, possibly by his tightly lidded homosexuality. When this pair invade a well-to-do family's home, even Henry, recording the whole atrocity on a camcorder, is appalled by what Otis does. It's as though proximity to Henry has unchained Otis' demons, and the demons make him giddy. Rooker has since, of course, gone on to many different types of roles, but Towles, I think, here bravely nuked any chance he would have of playing anything other than a slimeball (he died last year).

We need the existence of Otis in order to be able to relate to Henry at all; Henry's a killer, too, but an affectless one who never seems to enjoy it. He's gentlemanly towards Becky, and disgusted by Otis' incestuous/necrophiliac kinks, and that makes him the closest thing to a moral center the film offers — yes, he's a moral blank, but he's not actively, gigglingly evil like Otis. Towles manages to make Otis more than a caricature of redneck rabies, and Rooker smolders implosively, hardly moving his lips as he pulls out painful bits of (contradicting) memories about his mother as though prying shards of glass out of his skin. I submit that the scene in which Becky and Henry sit around the table trading familial sex-horror stories is the entire movie in microcosm — everything proceeds from this grim and grimy reality of mothers and fathers who want to scar their children sexually. Henry's murders involve the soul more than the body. That's what makes the movie more art than horror.

followed up Hathaway with a goal, giving the Gladiators an early 2-0 lead. Fall Revolutionary War Encampment

In September 1778, during the Revolutionary War, about 4,000 British soldiers who were landed from 36 transport ships attacked the four villages situated on the Acushnet River. During the raid, houses, ships and business places in New Bedford, Acushnet and Fairhaven were ransacked and burned. The fort at Nolscot Point in Fairhaven, now called Fort Phoenix, was destroyed by British troops. It took years for the local waterfront industries to recover from the raid.

The Revolutionary War era will come to life again in Fairhaven during a two-day historical encampment scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, September 24 and 25 at Fort Phoenix.

During that weekend, members of the Fairhaven Village Militia and the Fairhaven Office of Tourism will live in an authentic period camp the same way it was done more than 230 years ago. Men, women and children dressed in period clothing will reenact life in 1778 and talk about the history of the fort. They will also be demonstrating campfire cooking, fire starting with flint and steel, sewing and/or knitting, musket ball casting, military drilling, loading and firing flintlock muskets and rifles, cannon firing and more. Visitors may try their hand at tomahawk throwing and children's games of the period.

The highlight of the weekend will be the firing of the fort's five large cannons, scheduled for dusk, approximately 6:15 pm, on Saturday. When fired near sundown, the cannons' plumes of flames and smoke make a spectacular sight.

The Fairhaven Village Militia began as a small volunteer group in 1999. Made up of members who are interested in local history of the Revolutionary War period, they hold historical encampments in Fairhaven and nearby communities and host educational programs.

At the encampment, the group is depicting camp life during the Revolutionary War period. There will be regular demonstrations of military drilling and musket firing, but there will be no large-scale battle re-enactments.

Both the cannon firing and the overnight encampment will be cancelled in the event of heavy rain. Weather permitting, the militia's camp will be open to the public from 9:00 am until sunset on Saturday and from 9:00 am to mid afternoon on Sunday.

There are four distances to choose from: a 100-mile century ride that begins at Sakonnet Point in Rhode Island; a 75-mile route that begins at Horseneck Beach in Westport; a 35-mile route that begins at Eastover Farm in Rochester; and an 11-mile family route down the Shining Sea Bikeway in Falmouth. Tri-County Symphonic Band: A Family Affair

Families that play together stay together. This is a truism that seems to hold up no matter what families do for fun: hiking, camping, going to the movies, worshipping at church, dining together, and so forth. For members of the Tri-County Symphonic Band, playing together is all about making music.

For over 50 years, the band has been sharing this family love of music with all of us who live here in the South Coast. At the helm of this merry band of music makers is Maestro Philip Sanborn (Marion) who wields the baton while his wife, Karen, holds forth on the mighty baritone saxophone.

Toby Monte (Somerset) and his brother Michael (Somerset), along with their sons, could almost be a band themselves. At various times, Toby, Michael, Toby Jr., Daniel, David, and Michael Jr. have shared their talents on trumpet, saxophone, clarinet, French horn euphonium, and percussion.

Trumpeter Bob Katcher (East Falmouth) and his flutist daughter, Katie, are one of a number of parent/child pairings. Fran Gordon (Mattapoisett) enjoyed playing clarinet in the band for years and now his daughter Debbie continues the family tradition on the flute. Principal clarinetist Kathy DiPasqua-Egan (Hanson) loves playing in the band but enjoyed it even more when her daughter, Sarah Egan, was able to join her on the trumpet. The same thing goes for flutist Lorrie Hassan (Easton), whose daughter, Megan, joined her in the flute section for a number of concerts. Hannah Moore (Marion) on trombone and French horn and her son, Tom, on tuba are two more family members who have made music together. Chris Chambers (Buzzards Bay) continues on Husbands and wives also make a lot of harmony together. Doug Meyer (Plymouth) plays the trombone while his wife, Susan, enjoys the clarinet. Bill and Karin Kingsland (Fairhaven) on trumpet and trombone are members of the band's brass section while Peter and Pattie Marshall (Seekonk) fill out the woodwinds with clarinet and bass clarinet. The Marshalls' son, Dylan, has performed on the French horn. Bob Williamson (Mattapoisett) and his wife, Chris, have made their love of music heard in the band and their son continues the family tradition by occasionally serving in the percussion section. Patty and Don Richard (Plymouth) hold forth on clarinet and trumpet while their daughter, Emily, has performed on violin in the past.

The Tri-County Symphonic Band has been a part of the South Coast music scene for 55 seasons. Its founding director was John Pandolfi. During this time, under the baton of four music directors – Pandolfi, George Dietzler, Dan Lasdow and Sanborn – it has performed the music of the great classical composers such as Mozart, Copland, Tchaikovsky, Prokofiev, Wagner, Holst, as well as many others. While the band can provide a stirring rendition of the ever popular march by John Philip Sousa, "The Stars and Stripes Forever," it can also please those who want to hear the timeless music of Broadway, jazz classics, and Hollywood blockbusters such as the music

Dangers of Prescription Drugs in the Home

Please join us on Friday, September 30 at 7:00 pm at The First Congregational Church Community Center Hall at 144 Front Street, Marion.

Deputy Liisa Budge-Johnson of the Plymouth County Sheriff's Department will present a free 30-minute PowerPoint program on the dangers of prescription drugs and inhalants in the home. Machacam Club Meeting

The Machacam Club will hold its first meeting of the new year on October 5 at the Legion Hall at 3 Depot Street. Social time is 5:30 pm; dinner is at 6:00pm.

The meal will be lasagna, tossed salad, garlic bread and pie for dessert. Our speaker for the evening will be Catherine Heuberger. Catherine has held the office of Town Clerk since 2014, and this will be her first visit with us. Catherine will report on her first two plus years. One change, in particular, will be of interest to all, namely the "Early Vote Program." Catherine has been asked to be prepared to discuss this change, which is effective in November with the presidential election, and the action that is being taken concerning the fear of a "hacked" election.

Callers and members are asked to bear in mind the importance of call list accuracy. Caller lists should be done and reported no later than 9:00 pm on Monday, October 3 by email to GPFNR@aol.com or by phone to Mike at 508-758-9311. Members with requests can contact Mike by phone at 508-758-9311 no later than 9:00 am on Tuesday, October 4.

Counting Crows (and other birds)

You, too, can be part of one of the largest citizen science projects in the world. The Nasketucket Bird Club will present a program about "eBird: The Ins and Outs" from Evan Dalton. Dalton is the Lead Instructor, Landbird Conservation for Manomet, a world-renowned organization leading the way in science and education based on 50 years of bird banding research. Learn more about eBird (a technology from the Cornell Lab of Ornithology), how it uses everyday citizens to track birds, and how you can be a part of it.

The event will be held at 7:00 pm on Thursday, September 22 at the Mattapoisett Public Library, 7 Barstow Street. The entrance located on the south side of Barstow Street is handicapped accessible. The meeting is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Carolyn Longworth at bvm1290@comcast.net or visit the club website at massbird.org/Nasketucket.
